The Intimate and the Public: privacy, data sharing & the public good

Harry Cayton

Chair, National Information Governance Board for Health & Social Care England

The future is about new therapeutic relationships not new therapeutic technologies.

Therapeutic relationships require data sharing.

Ethical issues in data sharing

- Citizens have a shared interest in the quality of healthcare
- Health data is personal and sensitive
- The 'ownership' of health data is problematic
- Confidentiality is not a substitute for consent; it is a requirement for consent
- Consent is a public good

The future is with us; it is just unevenly distributed.
